

Amy Gallatin & Stillwaters

"I cannot remember the last time I was this awed with a singer, the supporting cast and the instrumental accompaniment. Absolutely a voice as unique as that of Alison Krauss. Amy is distinctive in her styling. Yes, she performs pop, western swing, etc. but in any style her voice is captivating and she can flat lay out a bluegrass number as well as any female voice you have ever heard, bar none!!"

-- Howard Bonner, Wind Gap Festival Emcee and radio host,
Kingston, Ontario, Canada

The powerhouse duo of Amy Gallatin and renowned resophonic guitarist Roger Williams—respected veterans of the New England music scene—explore their mutual love of country standards, served up with an acoustic treatment in the bluegrass vein. The result is a toe-tapping blend of heartfelt vocals, soaring harmonies and red-hot picking, traditional yet modern and distinct.

Americana radio host Ed McKeon says: "Amy's vocals, with the power and tone of her voice, are tempered by Roger's baritone which has been sanded smooth by cigarettes and, shall we say, maturity. The song selections are perfect, the harmonies glorious, the sentiments wonderfully maudlin (like any good old country song)."

The two are enhanced on mandolin and vocals by Roger's son, Berkeley College of Music grad JD, who—in the time-honored tradition of musical consanguinity complements his father's style perfectly—and by veteran bassist Bob Dick, formerly of the award-winning bluegrass band Front Range and founder of New England's Blackstone Valley Bluegrass.
